Notes

Maureen got pregnant when she was 19, but the father of the child was killed in The Troubles before he could marry her. She came to America to live with her brother and raise her daughter. Unfortunately Kaitlyn died in the influenza epidemic of 1918. Influenza and grief were nearly the end of Maureen as well.

In time, she recovered, and once her brother was accepted to the faculty at the University, he encouraged her to study as well. Once she attained her degree she became his research assistant when he was studying in the field.
